Save Mayday A&E

Croydon Conservatives

Under new proposals from the Labour Government to save money in the London NHS, some hospitals in south London will be downgraded and lose major services like Accident & Emergency (A&E) and maternity. A leaked report suggests that Mayday A&E is one of those at risk. In previous re-organisations Mayday has already lost out to St George's in Tooting on having acute trauma and hyper-acute stroke units: now A&E is under threat.

Croydon Conservatives believe that, for some parts of the borough during peak traffic congestion, the additional journey time to alternative A&E Departments will inevitably put lives at risk. We think that the best interests of Croydon is served by the retention of Mayday A&E and we urge the Government to think again. If elected, a future Conservative Government will immediately stop the review of clinical services at the Mayday – including the A&E unit. Please sign the petition if you agree that lives and health will be put at risk if this vital service is removed and Mayday downgraded.
